PENTAGON'S SKILL SHINES THROUGH

Liverpool, 24th June 2010 - The Chemical Industries Association awarded Pentagon the The National Skills Award sponsored by Cogent and National Skills Academy at its awards banquet held in St Georges Hall.

The awards are the premier accolades for the UK chemical industry.

The process industries require some of the most highly skilled people in the country. The purpose of this Award is to recognise the employer that has done the most to contribute to the acquisition of skills by the company's workforce.

The acquisition of skills has been a major factor in the sustainable development of Pentagon's business and has helped reduce waste and costs at the same time as improving safety and financial performance.

An extensive training programme for all operators and shift managers has been undertaken with the aim of them all achieving qualifications in Business Improvement Techniques. The twin sites aim of delivering the Cogent Gold Standard for its training is well on the way to being realised. A fantastic example of what can be achieved through investment in training even in challenging times.

This is the third year in succession that Pentagon has won an award from the Chemical Industries Association.

The event was attended by companies across all sectors of industry and highlighted the diversity and strength of UK Chemical manufacturing.

We would like to thank our customers and suppliers for their support in this success.

Pentagon's two businesses at Widnes and Workington engender a culture of sustainable development and manufacturing excellence.
